

WELCOME TO HSP3M: INTRODUCTION TO ANTHROPOLOGY, SOCIOLOGY & PSYCHOLOGY

Dear social scientist in training:

Our school has been asked to participate in an important social scientific study, and you have been recruited as research assistants. This study will begin today and continue until June, 2011. You will be collecting qualitative data in an attempt to understand Subject EA in terms of her behaviour, the way she is socialized, and her role in various social groups and institutions.

Please have a seat and observe the subject in front of you (Subject EA). You may get up and examine the artifacts associated with her. Please do not attempt to talk to or interact with Subject EA. You have 5-10 minutes to complete your research.

Record your observations in the space provided:

Describe Subject EA :
Select three of the artifacts. How do you think each one is significant to Subject EA ?	Significance of artifact:
Artifact (a)	(a)
Artifact (b)	(b)
Artifact (c)	(c)
How would you describe the subject's behaviour?
Is Subject EA intelligent? How can you tell that she is/is not?
How would you describe the subject's emotional state? Why? To what would you attribute these emotions?
Which social groups do you think the subject belongs to?
